The Reverend Brenda Simonds M. Div., BBC
MHSC Director, Spiritual Care

Brenda is the Director of Spiritual Care at Methodist Hospital where she has served since 1980. She has been the Administrative Representative on the Bioethics Committee of the hospital since its inception in 1984. Methodist Hospital has responded to changing ethnic and religion demographics in its service area over the past 30 years. Brenda has participated in assessing the spiritual and cultural needs of patients as well as the interpretation of ethical decisions in a variety of cultures and faith traditions. This has led to policy changes, adapting of service practices, and education opportunities.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

We live in a part of the country that is blessed with rich cultural and faith diversity. Our cultures and faith traditions shape our understanding of the causes of illness and the cures for illness. The roles that family members play in the family system regarding communication, decision making, and responsibilities revolve around the expectations placed on them by cultural norms. To accommodate the cultural and faith traditions of our patients requires attentive listening and an open mind. We need to understand our own culture and beliefs and be curious about the culture and beliefs of our patients. In our time together we will explore ideas and look at cases that may spark our creative energy in facing these complex and important patient situations.

MEMBERSHIP

Members of OHE are dedicated to promoting understanding of current healthcare issues and provide experience for members to support excellence in teaching and managerial skills.

OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of the program, the participant will be able to:

1. Become familiar with multiple components of culture.
